

	G	S	B	Total	Grade	The Straits Times' assessment
Archery	0	0	0	0	B-	Only compound events were contested. Contessa Loh came closest to the podium, making it to the bronze-medal match.
Athletics	0	0	3	3	D	Poor performance save for three bronzes, down from 2-2-4 in 2017, amid reports of infighting in the relay teams.
Badminton	0	1	2	3	B	Loh Kean Yew's brave run to the men's singles final was the highlight but, in the women's camp, Yeo Jia Min admitted the need to improve physically and mentally.
Baseball	0	0	0	0	B-	This was Singapore's Games debut so no surprise as they finished fourth.
Basketball	0	0	0	0	C+	The damage came in the group defeat by a Vietnam side boosted by foreign-born players. The Singapore men recovered to beat Malaysia for fifth place.
Bowling	3	1	4	8	A	The women made a statement by reclaiming the team title and New Hui Fen dominated with the singles and Masters golds. The men gave a creditable performance.
Boxing	0	0	1	1	C	While they had three bronzes in 2017, they have only one this time.
Canoe/kayaking	0	0	0	0	C+	All five were debutants racing in seawater conditions for the first time. Only Lim Yuan Yin made two finals and narrowly missed out on a medal.
Chess	1	0	0	0	A	One athlete, one event, one gold. Against some of the region's top, full-time players, Gong Qianyun was superb under pressure.
Cue sports	1	1	6	8	B	As the gold count dropped from three to one, while the medals doubled to eight, sole gold medallist Peter Gilchrist remains the standard-bearer.
Cycling	0	1	2	3	B+	With no track events, where Singapore had a 1-1-1 haul in 2017, one silver and two bronzes in road cycling is commendable.
Dancesport	0	1	4	5	B+	No golds. But one silver and four bronzes across all three styles was a major breakthrough from the 2005 and 2007 drought.
Diving	0	1	2	3	B	With a reduced roster, the divers put in a commendable performance with medals in three of the four events.
E-sports	0	1	1	2	B	No golds. But the athletes delivered the country's first Games medals in the sport - one silver and one bronze.
Fencing	4	3	6	13	A+	Singapore's best Games showing sent them atop the fencing tally.
Floorball	1	1	0	2	B	Both teams had been heavy favourites. The women delivered, the men did not.
Football	0	0	0	0	F	A real let-down on and off the pitch. The Young Lions failed to score in four games and, to make matters worse, nine of their 20 players broke curfew during the tournament.
Golf	1	1	0	2	A-	Kudos for a first men's individual gold in 30 years from James Leow, while the new-look men's team fought bravely against Thailand but failed to retain their title.
Gymnastics	0	0	1	1	B-	With just one bronze this time, it is a far cry from their haul of two silvers and three bronzes in 2017.
Beach handball	0	0	0	0	C	In tough competition, they lost all their games and finished last.
Ice hockey	0	1	0	1	A-	They improved on their medal-less finish in 2017 to reach the final, where they lost to a formidable Thai team.
Ice skating	4	0	1	5	A	New ground was broken as Singapore won its first short-track speed skating golds - three. Figure skating added one more for the Republic to top the joint tally with four of the eight titles.
Indoor hockey	0	0	2	2	B	Joint-bronzes for both the men and women put them one step up from their 2017 performance of one bronze.
Judo	0	1	2	3	B	A silver and two bronzes make it an improvement from the 2017 result of one bronze.
Jiu-jitsu	2	1	4	7	A	Impressive showing in a campaign reaping two golds, one silver and four bronzes, with seven of the nine fighters winning medals.
Kurash	0	1	0	1	B+	Fifty per cent return for the two-man team, as a gritty battle through pain earned Joel Tseng a silver.
Lawn bowling	1	0	1	2	A	The women's triples team ended the sport's two-decade wait for gold.
Modern pentathlon	0	0	2	2	B	Delivered on its two-bronze target despite events being compressed into fewer days because of Typhoon Kammuri
